Two dead, three hurt in crashes

Two persons are dead and three injured in three serious auto accidents during the weekend and this morning.

Herbert E. Maxeiner, 23, of St. Louis, was fatally injured at 12:40 a.m. Sunday when the van he was driving and an auto collided at the intersection of Route 3 and West Chain of Rocks Road.

According to an Illinois State Police spokesman, preliminary reports indicate that Mr. Maxeiner was traveling west on Chain of Rocks Road when his van was involved in a collision with a passenger car operated by Louis G.

Vardouniotis, 55, of Alton, which was northbound on Route 3.

MR. MAXEINER was thrown from his vehicle and was pronounced dead upon arrival at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Both Vardouniotis and a passenger in his auto, Louis Lasakis, 36, of Godfrey, suffered injuries and were taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where both were admitted. Vardouniotis was listed in stable condition this morning and Lasakis was transferred today from the intensive care

$19.4 million for Scott AFB

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Editor

Insistence by U.S. Congressman Melvin Price (D-21st District) has kept alive an authorization of $19.4 million for construction of new Air Force Communications Command Headquarters at Scott Air Force Base near Belleville.

The appropriation had been added to the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1985 by Price, but it had been deleted by the Senate Armed Services Committee.

"VERY SIMPLY, I let it be known that there would be no conference report without the money for Scott. It took less than two minutes to restore the project," Price said.

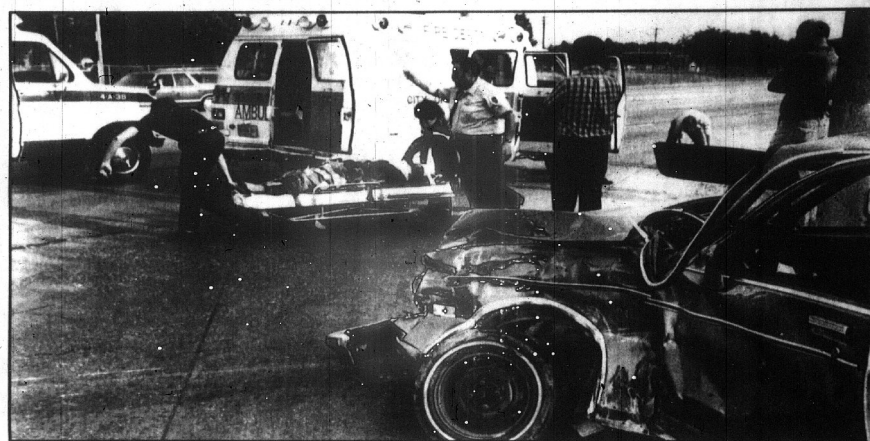

He said he expects the compromise measure to be approved by both houses of Congress and sent to President Ronald Reagan for his signature in the near future.

Price said he feels the new headquarters is badly needed since the Air Force Communications Command has been housed in temporary quarters since it was moved from Richards-Gebaur Air Force Base in Missouri to Scott in 1978. The Military Airlift Command has provided the temporary quarters since that move.

Price's insistence on funding the new building for Scott was backed by a movement of area business executives who launched a letter-writing campaign in June to members of Congress supporting the funding.

The Regional Commerce and Growth Association and Belleville Center Inc. were among the business groups which worked for funding.

*The temporary Communications Command building was built in 1951 and currently houses 1,200 personnel.

ROUTE 3 CRASH TODAY. A 35-year-old woman, seriously injured when her compact car was hit broadside by a large truck at Route 3 and Niedringhaus Avenue this morning, is rushed to a waiting Granite City Fire Department ambulance. The car was westbound on Niedringhaus Avenue attempting a right turn when the northbound truck failed to stop at the red traffic signal, striking the car on the driver's side. The impact threw the woman more than 30 feet from her car. (Press-Record Photo)

Accelerated tax billing next year

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

As a step toward speeding Madison County's glacially slow taxing process, officials are expected to approve accelerated billing for next year.

Under Illinois law, counties must decide by Sept. 15 whether to utilize accelerated bills for the following year.

THE FIRST OF TWO installments would be billed about May 1, 1985, based on half of the previous year's real estate tax bill.

The bill for the final installment would be for the total newly determined tax, minus whatever was billed in May.

County Clerk Evelyn Bowles estimates the net cost of accelerated billing at $70,800. She believes labor and equipment costs would total $113,400 and adds that $42,600 might be earned in interest as a result of earlier investment of tax revenue.

ALTHOUGH SOMEWHAT hesitant to incur the added cost, Miss Bowles says tax cycle delays have made some new approach essential.

Collection of 1983 tax year realty taxes in 1984 will be unusually late. Although they are supposed to be sent in May for June payments, bills may not be mailed until late this month or early September.

One of the reasons for this year's logjam is a large number of hearings conducted by the Board of Review at the request of property owners concerned about their new assessments. Also, some township assessors did not return valuation books to the county supervisor of assessments at the designated time, April 15.

TERRY FRANCIS, an attorney and former member of the Board of Review, told a committee of county and township officials Thursday that the board and assessment supervisor might wish to stagger the dates on which books are to be returned by assessors, with smaller townships completed initially and bigger townships later.

Francis also proposed that the county ask the General Assembly to permit spreading quadrennial reassessments over four years rather than concentrating on a single year.

With a quarter of Madison County's quarter-million population reassessed each year, assessment procedures and hearings could proceed more rapidly, Francis said.

MISS BOWLES gave the committee a letter from Highland School Supt. Olin W. Stratton, who said, "The serious situation that exists in collecting and distributing taxes is an indication that county government has broken down."

"The bickering and stubborn positions of other elected and appointed officials hurt the effectiveness of all county offices. I am requesting that you impress upon these officials the importance of sending out accelerated bills so that government can continue to operate."

Local area hit hard by U.S. cutback

One of the issues being debated in the 1984 political campaign is the impact of federal government programs on U.S. communities. Further fueling the already fiery discussion, the Census Bureau said Thursday a typical family's income rose last year, but 900,000 more people joined poverty ranks.

A new report by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees says Madison County stands to lose an accumulated $95 million if the federal budget proposed for 1984-85 is enacted—a four-year loss of $383 for each resident of the local county.

A BREAKDOWN of the $383 indicates that $243 involves grants-in-aid to governmental bodies and $140 involves payments to individuals, including a $60 per capita Medicare reduction, $50 less for retirement and survivors, $16 less for disability and $14 less food stamps.

The AFSCME report, "Illinois and the Reagan Years: A County by County Analysis of Social Spending Cuts," is being described as the first comprehensive, program-by-program analysis for Illinois counties of four years' actual and projected U.S. budget cuts.

It encompasses all categories of grants-in-aid to state and local governments, including education, employment and training, health services, nutrition, income maintenance and human services, and infrastructure and economic development.

ALSO SHOWN are reductions in payments to individuals, such as food stamps, Medicare, Social Security and Supplemental Security Income.

Terry Reed, an AFSCME international union representative, says, "Madison County has been particularly hard hit in several areas. It is among the top ten Illinois counties in dollars per-capita reductions in impact aid, the work incentive program, Medicaid, aid to families with dependent children (AFDC) and child support enforcement, child welfare services, juvenile justice assistance, economic development, urban development assistance grants, Social Security disability insurance and supplemental income."

THESE CUTS in federal assistance to both governments and individuals in Madison County have put a strain on local budgets, forcing government leaders to choose between higher taxes or reduced services.

"Public employees are caught in the middle, asked to take wage freezes and cuts in resources while continuing to provide quality services," Reed asserts.

Not all authorities agree with the method used in estimating the aid losses.

Strikes delay dam, highway

Two days after Madison County carpenters went on strike at the Mississippi River lock and dam site, district laborers called a strike Saturday against highway construction in 12 Southwestern Illinois counties.

A spokesman at Laborers' Local 387 in Granite City said this morning that work by members of his local has not been affected.

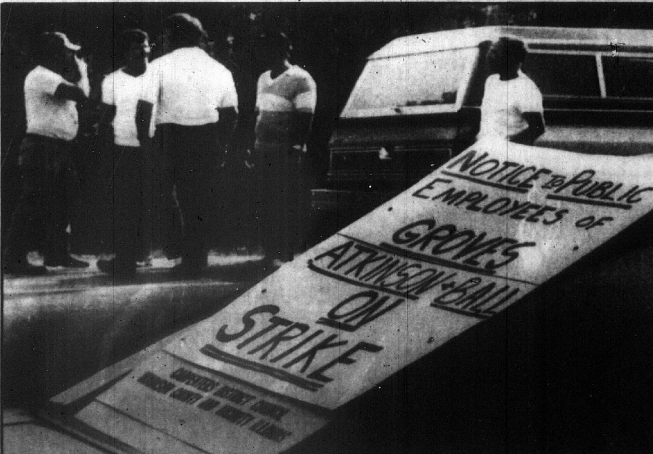

PICKETING by carpenters is continuing today, although their work stoppage has not been authorized by the international union. No change was reported today in the district laborers' dispute with area contractors.

The 12 Counties Southwestern Illinois Laborers District Council had extended the deadline for drawing up a new contract with the Southern Illinois Builders Association (SIBA) beyond the original expiration time of Tuesday night, July 31.

Picketing against one contractor was started by carpenters at the lock and dam project Thursday morning. They contended they were being asked to accept a pay cut and dangerously small staffing.

District laborers agreed to keep negotiating and working through Friday night, but then went on strike Saturday, tying up most big construction sites in this region, including the extension of Interstate

County unemployment dips, but GC rate hits 12.3%

Unemployment in Madison County continued to decline during June, but Granite City's unemployment rate increased during the month, partially due to students returning to the workforce, according to statistics released Friday by the Illinois Department of Labor's Bureau of Employment Security.

Countywide, unemployment dropped from 10 percent in May's final figures to 9.9 percent in June's preliminary figures. In Granite City, the workforce swelled from 19,625 in May to 20,300 in June and the unemployment rate climbed from 11.8 percent to 12.3 percent.

"ABSORPTION of seasonal entrants into the labor force, coupled with continuation of the recovery trend, edged the rate of employment," commented Velda Gerstenecker of the research and analysis division.

The number of persons employed in Granite City climbed from 17,300 in May to 17,800 in June, but the additional number of persons entering the workforce increased the number on the unemployment rolls from 2,325 in May to 2,500 in June. The figures reflect only those still on unemployment and do not include those whose unemployment benefits have expired or those who have returned to school.

Granite City's June unemployment rate was topped in this area only by Belleville, with a 13.1 percent unemployment rate (an improvement from 13.8 percent in May). Lower unemployment was reported for Alton at 11.3 percent and East St. Louis at 11 percent.

ALL LOCAL cities are experiencing unemployment higher than the state average, which remained constant at 8.8 percent for both May and June.

The statewide labor force increased from 3,581,000 persons in May to 3,736,000 in June while the number on the unemployment rolls increased from 489,000 to 506,000 in the same months, according to the Bureau's statistics.

Madison County's unemployment rate was lower than the 17.7 percent reported by Alton County in June or the 12.9 percent in Jersey County. Counties in the seven-county region with lower June unemployment than Madison County were St. Clair at 9.7 percent, Clinton at 9.4, Bond at 9.3 and Monroe at 6.9 percent.

THE AVERAGE for the seven-county area was 9.7 percent unemployed in June, an improvement from 9.9 percent in May.

Job training praised

U.S. Secretary of Labor Raymond J. Donovan believes that the Job Training Partnership Act "is living up to our best expectations."

"I am pleased with the results, especially with the key number that emerges: more than 70 percent of all those who left JTPA were placed in jobs."

"This is a phenomenal accomplishment, especially since we had initially set a national performance standard of 55 percent placements."

"More importantly, about 95 percent of the participants in the basic training program are economically disadvantaged. Even though the act specifies that up to 10 percent of the enrollees in the basic programs may be exempt from income eligibility requirements, state and local operators are clearly emphasizing services to the poor and exceeding the legislative goals."

Donovan also noted that the act's mandate that 70 cents of every training dollar be used for training was met.

"We are getting tremendous value for each training dollar, with 73 percent of JTPA funds being spent for training," the secretary said. Under CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) less than 20 percent of the funds went for training.

Donovan lauded the private sector, observing that about 11,000 individual private employers are participating in planning, implementing and assessing local JTPA programs through membership in local Private Industry Councils.

"They have helped focus JTPA on its basic purpose: increasing the employment and earning of the disadvantaged so they can achieve economic independence. The participation of private enterprise in these training programs is the ultimate key to success or failure of JTPA," Donovan said, citing the fact that 80 percent of all jobs in the U.S. are in the private sector.

Governors have organized 506 JTPA service delivery areas.

Of the first half-million persons trained, 435,000 were young people and 65,000 were displaced workers.

VEHICLE BRUISES AGAINST PEDESTRIAN AT 2RD-ST

A pedestrian, Clyde A. Walker, 84, 67259 State St. was brushed by the front fender of a westbound auto as he walked south and started to cross Third Street at State Street on Thursday.

Walker said he did not see the car as he proceeded into the crosswalk. Joseph Cuvar, 4049 Kathy Drive, said he saw the pedestrian but thought the man was going to stop before reaching the path of Cuvar's auto.

Original GC school built 126 years ago

By WALDO FROHARDT

The Kinder family originally came from Germany. Calvin Kinder's father was Thomas Kinder, and their family came down the Ohio River and settled in the Old Six Mile Prairie in 1817.

They had some wealth. Their farm extended from the present site of the Nestle plant to the YMCA. And their name is linked to the first public school in Granite City.

Calvin Kinder's neighbors were John and Margaret Gilliam Davidson. After Margaret Davidson's husband, John, passed away, she married Calvin Kinder.

Later on, they laid out this farm and the streets were called Cherry, Elm and Oak. The street passing the Methodist Church was called Church Street. Others were Maple, Spruce, Poplar and Walnut.

In the early 1850s, railroads were chartered in Madison County. In 1856, a railroad was built from in Lincolnton (called East St. Louis after 1861) through Six Mile Prairie.

A railroad station was established on the Calvin Kinder farm. Kinder was a prominent citizen of the area, so the station was named in his honor. Soon after this people began calling the locality around the station, Kinder.

In 1857, the Methodist Church on the Thomas Gilliam farm became old and unfit for services.

Kinder, who was a very practical man, suggested erecting a new building which could be used for a church as well as a school. In 1858, a two-story building was erected for a church and district schoolhouse.

The upper floor was used for a church, and school was taught on the first floor.

Non-Methodists did not like the idea. They said that Mr. Kinder had hooked school money to build a Methodist Church. This is where the name Kinderhook came from.

In 1864, the transition came about from district school to Granite School. It was at this time the Niedringhaus family was developing an industrial complex.

During the summer of 1894, Louis P. Frohardt, who was head teacher of the Academic Department in Central Wesleyan College, was employed by the Niedringhaus family to organize the schools.

Although Granite City was just a village at the time, he accepted the position because he knew it would grow. In 1894, the Kinderhook school was opened with 30 pupils. By October of that same year, they had 60 pupils.

Four years later, in January 1898, Emerson school was opened nearby. There was considerable criticism of building such a large school, and only half of it was used at first. But within a year and half, they needed additional room and Washington School was built.

Emerson marked the end of the Kinderhook School.

Four years later, in 1902, Park Avenue Methodist Church was built and that was the end of the Kinderhook Church.

The bell from the Kinderhook Church was placed in a tower in the Park Avenue Church and is now on display in the present Niedringhaus Church in downtown Granite City.

The limestone foundation blocks of the Kinder school are still visible on the Emerson School playground. (Emerson itself was ended as a school in June 1983 and the property was purchased in 1984 by the Nestle Co., Inc.)

Waldo Frohardt's older brother, Homer, who was born in 1885, visited here one time and he and Waldo went over to the limestone blocks on the playground. Homer showed him approximately where his school desk had stood.

Waldo said, "It felt like we were visiting the Old Kinderhook School once again."

Members of the present Kinder family here are not related to the original Kinders.

THIEVES FLEE, FIND LOOT WON'T FIT IN CAR TRUNK

Three thieves worked hard in an attempt to steal a coiled bulldozer track worth $1,400 last week from Clark's Hardware, 21st Street and Edwardsville Road. But they were unable to fit the 1,700-pound track in to the trunk of an early 1970s Mustang auto.

One of the men was elderly and, two were young. When they were discovered by an employee as he returned from lunch, they fled in their car east on Edwardsville Road.

BURGLAR SLASHES SCREENS

A burglar obtained $290 from the home of Dorothy Kowalk, 2943 E. 25th St., early Friday after cutting two window screens. A purse was found later where it had been discarded in a yard. In an unrelated case, $80 earned by a newspaper carrier boy, Harold Smith Jr., was discovered Friday to have been stolen last week from his family's apartment at 4801 Kirkpatrick Homes.

Petition drive results in some qualified for grant

After weeks of gathering information door to door, volunteers have been successful in getting the Lakeview Drive, Rapp Road and Hills Terrace subdivisions of Chouteau Township declared eligible for Community Development Block Grant funds.

Chouteau Township Supervisor Walter "Dick" Sparks noted that these are the first areas in the township to qualify for the funds, designed to improve low-income neighborhoods. Any funds which result will be used for repaving the streets and for drainage projects in those areas.

In a door-to-door campaign, volunteers had residents fill out important information, including family income. Ninety-eight percent of the residents signed up and 58 percent of those were found to be within the government's low-income guidelines, Sparks said.

The township officials of Chouteau Township wish to express our gratitude and thanks to all the residents for their cooperation in getting the forms filled out," Sparks said.

"To the people who spearheaded the drive, I wish to give you a special word of praise. It goes to show that when you have a few dedicated individuals, a lot can be accomplished. We will do our very best to secure as much funding for projects as we can for your areas," he pledged.

PARKED CARS VANDALIZED

Parked vehicles were damaged last week at the C.D. Peters Construction Co., W. Pontoon Road and Illinois Route Three. At one auto, a window was broken and a business-radio antenna was removed. A van also was damaged, with a two-way radio taken, and an amber rotating light was stolen.

YOU CAN BANK ON IT!

DREW KARANDJEFF
President
GRANITE CITY TRUST

Q: There are a lot of places, other than banks, asking me to invest my money with them. Can you give me some idea of what benefit there is in a bank versus other "money institutions"?

A: There are a number of advantages your bank can offer over other non-bank "money institutions." First, there is the range of services all under one roof. Many other institutions specialize in only one or two services. Second, under that same roof, there are people who know you. Your neighbors and friends from your town. That means a lot. Speaking of your town — our town — that's where your money stays, helping the local economy. And, there is the fact that your accounts at your local bank are federally insured, up to $100,000, by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. That insurance is applicable only to banks, and it's a nice feeling to know that no matter what happens, your savings and investments are protected. Finally, we feel banking is a very personal thing, best done personally, face-to-face. We're here when ever you need us — and you don't need a 20¢ stamp.

12-year prison term for molesting girl, 5

With Robert Earl Spainhower deciding to plead guilty Thursday to two counts of aggravated indecent liberties with a five-year-old Madison girl, Circuit Judge Philip J. Rarik sentenced him to 12 years in an Illinois state prison.

The sentencing took place at the Madison County Courthouse in Edwardsville. Spainhower, 46, of 809 rear Greenwood St., Madison, was arrested July 24 after an investigation by Madison police and the Illinois Division of Criminal Investigation.

It was contended that he fondled the child on at least two occasions between January and May. Spainhower could have been sentenced to 60 years in prison. He was sentenced in 1978 to four to six years in prison for molesting four girls, who were six to eight years of age at the time.

While recommending that the Illinois Department of Corrections give psychiatric tests to determine if a counseling program would help Spainhower, Judge Rarik warned the defendant against ever repeating the crime.

If he appears before the judge in the future on a similar charge and conviction, the maximum sentence will be imposed, Rarik asserted.

Weekend car theft spree

Madison owners of Oldsmobiles came in for special attention during the weekend when car thieves either stole or attempted to steal four vehicles. Special precautionary measures may be advisable if one owns this make of auto, authorities advise.

A 1978 Buick Regal reported stolen earlier this year in East St. Louis also was recovered Sunday in Madison.

Lester McCoy, 1629 Fifth St., Madison, told police that between 2:40 p.m. and 3:10 p.m. Sunday, a 1972 two-door, tan-over-ivory Oldsmobile Cutlass sedan was stolen from a parking place in front of his dwelling.

Dennis Riggs, 1021 Greenwood St., Madison, reported at 10:55 a.m. Sunday that his 1976 red-over-white Oldsmobile Cutlass sedan also was stolen. The vehicle, which was parked at the curb in front of his residence, had a wallet inside the glove compartment, he said.

Riggs received a phone call from a person, who reported finding some credit cards and personal papers belonging to him in a parking lot, he told police. The items had been in the stolen vehicle, he noted.

Irvyng Simmons, 1126 Reynolds St., Madison, informed police at 9:15 a.m. Sunday that thieves broke the steering column on his 1980 Oldsmobile Regency in an unsuccessful attempt to take the auto.

Car pilferers also were thwarted in an effort to steal a 1982 Oldsmobile Regency in 1200 Kennedy Drive, Madison, she reported at 4:40 a.m. Sunday.

An attempt was made to twist off the ignition mechanism, but the thieves also broke a ring on the steering column and set off a horn, which awakened neighbors. The noise apparently scared the culprits away, reports said.

At 11:40 a.m. Sunday, Madison police were investigating another incident near Greiner Homes and ran a license check on a 1978 Buick Regal, parked in a nearby lot.

Reports disclosed the vehicle, registered to a Madison resident, was listed stolen April 5 from East St. Louis. Further information was being sought.

Strikes delay dam with improvements totaling $1.50 an hour.

Iron Workers accepted a three-year pact with gains of $1.95 an hour.

HUGO SCHWE, business agent for the 12 County Laborers Council, said picketing is being arranged for this week at all locations where the contractors are SIBA members.

The SIBA, informed police at 9:15 a.m. Sunday that thieves broke the steering column on his 1980 Oldsmobile Regency in an unsuccessful attempt to take the auto.

Schewe said the differences primarily are minor, but numerous. He said a federal mediator is attempting to schedule new bargaining talks.

ROGER SHELTON, a Washington, D.C., spokesman for the International United Brotherhood of Carpenters, said Friday the lock and dam strike is unauthorized and unauthorized because there has not yet been mediation.

Construction of a replacement dam and lock is costing the U.S. $830 million, Kenneth Kruchowski of the Corps of Engineers' St. Louis District said no immediate cost impact is expected from the strike, since there is some lag time in the work schedule.

Schewe expressed sympathy with the carpenters' viewpoint, commenting that an increase in non-union construction has forced craftsmen to consider wage freezes and reductions at a number of areas in the nation.

HE VOICED OPTIMISM that an agreement will be reached quickly. The international union has begun to take a role in the effort to obtain a settlement.

When 70 carpenters halted work at the river Thursday, 130 other workers refused to cross the picket line.

Strikers said the contractor is seeking work rule changes to restrict the size of pile-driving crews, which presently total six and five workers for different tasks, and also wants the $16.78 hourly pay reduced by $1.

SHELTON SAID there are differences between Madison County and St. Louis carpenters, both of which have or had agreements with the same contractors and sub-contractors on work in Illinois and Missouri.

The last work stoppage at the lock and dam—other than delays caused by high water—occurred in 1981 and involved operating engineers. That strike lasted 10 days.

Dam and lock work began in November 1979 and is slated to continue until 1989.

unit to a regular room in stable condition.

An ISP traffic investigation team was reconstructing details of the accident Sunday, pending a more conclusive report, it was learned.

MR. MAXEINER'S body was taken to Smith Funeral Home in Alton. Further information is given in today's obituary column.

William E. Sweet, 27, of Litchfield, Ill., a former Granite Cityan, was fatally injured Saturday night, when his car left the road, hit a tree and rolled over. His car was the only vehicle involved in the accident and Mr. Sweet was the only person in the car.

According to Macoupin County officials, Mr. Sweet's car was west-bound on Route 108 just west of Carlinville, Ill., when his car left the roadway. Officials said the car continued onto the Monterey Mine Office Property and struck a tree. The car then rolled over at least one time and came to rest upside down. Mr. Sweet was thrown from the vehicle.

MACOUPIN COUNTY Coroner Charles Landers pronounced Mr. Sweet dead at the scene at 9:49 p.m. An inquest will be conducted.

Today's obituary column has additional information on Mr. Sweet's funeral arrangements.

This morning shortly after 8 o'clock, Rosalee Burris, 35, was seriously injured when her westbound car on Niedringhaus Avenue was struck broadside by a large truck headed north on Route 3.

THE TRUCK FAILED to stop at the red traffic signal, according to witnesses, and struck the Burris compact car, which was attempting to turn right onto Route 3, on the driver's side. The impact caused the woman to be thrown more than 30 feet from her car.

Granite City Fire Department ambulance personnel stabilized the woman at the scene before transporting her to St. Elizabeth's Medical Center.

Podlewski said that Taracorp officials had agreed to let the company operate the mix-metals plant, but that the permit was denied because air pollution standards could not be met.

A variance from the EPA, he says, would allow Taracorp to receive its operating permit. Meanwhile, he adds, Taracorp has applied for the denial of several other operating permits.

Police and an ambulance were summoned and Mrs. Dunham, 41, was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where she was admitted for observation. Her condition this morning was good, a hospital spokesman advised.

The intruder apparently entered the house through a rear bedroom window, although a television set was operating in the living room, it was noted.

Later, it was discovered that $300 was missing from Mrs. Dunham's purse, reports said.

ministration took office, given changing economic circumstances." Fiscal Planning Services defines real reductions as "the difference between current funding levels and levels that would have existed had 1980-81 fiscal year budget policies remained unchanged."

As Illinois AFSCME sees it, "The cumulative reduction in social spending to Illinois during the Reagan years would exceed $4.6 billion if the administration's 1985 fiscal year budget proposals are adopted."

"Illinois state and local governments face losses in federal assistance of $1.1 billion, while direct losses to needy and elderly Illinoisans may amount to $1.3 billion."

STEVE CULEN, executive director of the union's Illinois division, says, "On July 24 the president asserted there is no evidence his policies have hurt working people, children, the poor or the elderly."

"Our report is that evidence it proves that his economic policies have created severe hardships for thousands of Illinois citizens least equipped to bear them. It also documents cuts in critical programs affecting middle-income people and the public at large, such as Medicare, Social Security, energy conservation, wastewater treatment and mass transit."

The thick report predicts that "many federally-supported programs face cuts of more than 50 percent during the Reagan years, including job training, the special milk program, the community services program, juvenile justice and economic development assistance."

"If THE PROPOSED fiscal 1985 budget is enacted, Illinois will have lost:

—$72 million in energy conservation aid for home weatherization, conservation in public facilities, and alternative energy technology development.

—$280 million in wastewater grants for planning and construction of treatment plants.

—$318 million in urban mass transit assistance.

"IN HIS FIRST year, the president cut 15,983 Illinois AFDC recipients from the rolls and reduced benefits to another 14,608."

"Medicaid coverage has been lost by 50,000. One consequence has been less prenatal care. Chicago's infant mortality rate rose from 18.9 deaths per 1,000 live births in 1981 to 21.8 in 1982."

"Illinois has absorbed cuts in child nutrition of seven percent for the school breakfast and lunch programs and 86 percent for the school milk program. A recent survey of the health status of youngsters screened at the Cook County Hospital showed a startling decline in the health of the poorest children."

Culen sums up, "In order for state and local governments to pick up some of these cuts, other public services are reduced or taxes are raised."

"FROM 1980 TO 1983, a median income Illinois family with $22,710 yearly income has seen its state sales taxes go up 25 percent, with property taxes rising 32 percent, and the state was forced to pass a temporary income tax surcharge of 20 percent."

Nationally, the Census Bureau said Thursday, median family income adjusted for inflation rose 1.6 percent in 1983 to $24,380 but Americans below the poverty level increased from 15 percent to 15.2 percent, rising from 34.4 million to 35.3 million.

The same census study noted that those with income below the poverty rate amounted to 11.7 percent of the population in 1979 and 13 percent in 1980, the last year of the Carter Administration.

Accelerated tax billing taxing bodies have gone deeply into debt while waiting to receive their taxes in the late summer and early fall, instead of in the late spring and early summer.

The county clerk compared her $70,800 tax acceleration cost estimate with the more than $1 million in interest being paid by taxing bodies annually due to borrowing to help finance their operations.

A REPORT on the available options is to be submitted to the Madison County Board at its August meeting.

Assistant State's Attorney Marshall "Zeke" Smith praised the group for meeting and seeking a solution. He has been a process of suing assessment officials to prod them to complete their work faster.

Meanwhile, the Finance Committee of the County Board will recommend a $12,000 budget item for the state's attorney to enable him to continue providing manpower to help enforce the mobile home privilege tax.

THIS EFFORT in the past year netted $44,000 for the county government and $12,000 for other taxing bodies, at a cost of $15,000.

It was estimated in 1983 that, for the preceding 10 years, $769,000 in mobile home taxes had gone unpaid, including about $342,000 now viewed as uncollectible.

Illinois Bell completes refunds

Illinois Bell's refund of $14.4 million to its residential customers in most areas outside Chicago ended with the July bills. Each residential customer received an average $7.64 refund per access line.

The Illinois Commerce Commission last December ordered Illinois Bell to apply the credit starting in January to customers in access Area C, where the company's rates and costs are highest. Customers received $1.14 per line for the first six months of 1984, and 80 cents in July.

Illinois Bell's customers are divided geographically into three access areas, with access line rates based on the cost of providing access in each area.

Access Area A includes customers in Chicago's Loop and Near-Loop areas, where costs are lowest. Access Area B includes the rest of Chicago and certain adjacent suburbs, where costs are somewhat higher. Access Area C includes the areas Illinois Bell serves in the rest of the state, where costs are highest. Funds for the credit resulted from $14.4 million that AT&T paid to Illinois Bell for expenses incurred during the formation of two AT&T subsidiaries, Advanced Mobile Phone Service and AT&T Information Systems. Most of the expenses were for salaries, system design, testing, installation, support systems and training programs that supported the development of enhanced services or advanced mobile phone service. These activities were carried out before Illinois Bell's Jan. 11 1984 divestiture from AT&T.

Urges dog owners to protect mailmen

With the arrival of the "Dog Days of Summer," Granite City Post Office Officer in Charge Robert T. Ferguson has asked dog owners to help protect their letter carriers from the literal and figurative pain of dog bites. Ferguson said that 7,000 of the nation's letter carriers suffered dog bite injuries last year.

Three local carriers were bitten by dogs last year and four dog bite cases have been reported to date this year.

"Dog bites can be disastrous," Ferguson said, adding, "And that's why we are asking for cooperation from dog owners. We're hoping they will help to protect both their pets and their letter carriers."

Ferguson suggested that dog owners keep their pets in an area away from the mailbox and the areas used by the mail carrier for access to the property. "If the pet is not kept behind a secure fence, then we suggest the owner restrain the dog with a leash or keep it inside during the usual hours of the carrier's delivery," he said.

The Postal Service has the right to protect its carriers by refusing to deliver mail to a household with an unrestrained dog. In the case where a dog is allowed to run loose, delivery to the entire neighborhood could be affected. The Postal Service also provides counseling to bitten carriers wishing to pursue legal action against the dog owners.

"Things don't have to go that far," Ferguson says. "We constantly alert our carriers to the problem, but the real solution to dog bites is for the owners to help us. It's the old story of an ounce of prevention being worth a pound of cure."

Explorers to see space shuttle launch

Members of the Law Enforcement Explorer Post 10-4 are scheduled to see the space shuttle Discovery's twice-delayed maiden flight "blast off" scheduled for Friday, Aug. 24, at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Twenty-two Quad-City area teenagers and leaders, all members of Post 10-4, are heading for Daytona Beach, Fla., for their "super activity" on Aug. 19.

W. F. "Mike" Strange, coordinator of the post, said he is working with NASA officials, who are trying to obtain a special "V.I.P." section for the local Explorer Scouts.

NASA security personnel told Strange the Aug. 24 flight has special significance as it will combine major features from the previous two canceled launches.

"This will be a once in a lifetime experience for the Explorers. I just hope Discovery's launch isn't canceled for some reason like weather or some malfunction," Strange said.

The Explorers will be staying at the Pirates Cove Beach Lodge in Daytona Beach, where the owner George Anderson was made an honorary member of the Post in 1982 and presented with their summer uniform.

In the 16 years the Post has been active, this is the fifth time the Explorers have gone to Daytona and stayed at Anderson's lodge.

In addition to the space shuttle launch, a trip to the new Epcot Center has been planned, in addition to visiting other area attractions such as Sea World.

Major Robert Strange of the Orlando Police Department will meet with the local Explorers and show them around the Orlando department.

Adults going are: Mr. and Mrs. Terry (Alice) Roth, Madison Patrolman Gary Marsala, the post advisor; Associate Judge Norman Kinder, a member of the Explorer Post adult committee, and John Buhmann, an associate advisor.

The biggest part of the cost of the trip is earned through Explorers projects such as car washes, candy sales and "photo's with Santa."

To help support the young men in their activities, civic-minded groups help from time to time, such as "Friends for Scouting" and Police Benevolent and Protective Association 110 of Madison, sponsors for the past 16 years of the post.

False Medicare claims by Dr. Hallstead alleged

Dr. Ronald L. Hallstead of Carbondale, who formerly operated a chiropractic office in Granite City, was indicted by a federal grand jury in East St. Louis Friday on 47 counts of fraud. The charges allegedly stem from submitting false Medicare claims.

Dr. Hallstead, who now operates Practice Systems Inc., a national management seminar for chiropractors, faces a maximum sentence of 232 years in federal prison and nearly $1 million in fines.

It is alleged that Dr. Hallstead submitted Medicare claims for more visits than his clients actually made. He also is charged with conspiring with another person to defraud the government.

The FBI has declined to comment on the period of time during which the false claims allegedly were submitted, but sources said that Practice Systems Inc., which Dr. Hallstead now operates, is not involved.

In addition to the practices in Granite City and Carbondale, Dr. Hallstead has operated a chiropractic clinic in West Frankfort, Ill.

For Cards' Game Aug. 17

GC Night tickets are still available

Granite Cityans will have two opportunities to hear one of its favorite sons, Dal Maxvill, on Friday, Aug. 17.

In addition to Granite City Community Night at Busch Stadium, which has already been slated for that evening, Granite Cityans will be able to attend a luncheon that afternoon for Maxvill at Charlie's Restaurant. Tickets for both outings are available at Mark Goldenberg's office, located in the Sam Wolf building, and at the Press-Record Sports Desk.

Maxvill, a member of the St. Louis baseball Cardinals' World Series teams in 1964 and 1967 and now a coach with the Atlanta Braves, will be in St. Louis as the Braves begin a three-game series with the Redbirds.

Maxvill, who grew up and played Little League baseball in Granite City, is perhaps best known by Cardinals fans for his clutch hit in the seventh game of the '67 World Series which sparked the Redbirds to a Series victory over the Boston Red Sox.

In addition to the two World Series that Maxvill spent with the Cardinals, he was later traded to the Oakland Athletics of the American League and went on to shine for A's during their heyday in the early '70's.

Tickets for the luncheon are $20. Proceeds from the Aug. 17 Dal Maxvill Luncheon will benefit the Granite City Park District Youth Baseball Leagues.

Persons seeking ticket information or need further information about either the luncheon or the Granite City Community Night at Busch Stadium should contact Goldenberg at 877-0088 or the Press-Record Sports Desk at 876-2000.

PRESS-RECORD

Summer Haven wins Paddlers stroke to second in SWISA meet

By PAULA WISE
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY Paddlers' Swim Club, seeking their fifth consecutive Southwestern Illinois Swimming Association Championship crown, fell just 14 points short of its goal Saturday as it was outscored by Summer Haven 433-419 in the seven-team event.

After trailing early in the competition by as much as 34 points, Paddlers rebounded with the help of strong swimmers from their relay teams, to threaten in the final events.

"I'm very pleased with the way the kids swam today. To tell you the truth I expected to lose by more. Some kids just swam out of their heads," said Paddlers' Coach Celeste Sonnenberg.

"I'M REALLY happy with the way the relay teams finished. There's always big competition to be on a relay team. There's a lot of pride associated with being on a SWISA championship relay. Most kids do better on the relay teams than they do in their own event. It's as if they can't let their buddies down," she added.

During Saturday competition Paddlers set 16 new club records, including five relay records. Three of those records were also SWISA records.

David Baker led all the record breakers as he was instrumental in setting four new Paddlers marks. In the 13-14 boys' 200-individual medley, Baker registered a time of 2:39.68, crushing the old 1972 mark of 2:44.4.

BAKER went on to set his second record in the 50-meter freestyle where he broke the record twice. In his preliminary heat, Baker finished with a time of 26.94, almost two full seconds off the old 1977 mark. In the finals, he turned in a time of 26.44 to better his own mark.

Both of Baker's other records came in relays where he combined with Vince Darnell, Mike McCormick and Collins Harlan to set records in the 200-meter free style relay and the 200-meter medley relay. The free style record bettered the previous 1977 mark by almost 14 seconds.

John Amisch and Patti Martin were also instrumental in Paddlers' high point totals as they each had three record-setting performances.

AMISCH'S records came in the 15-18 boys' 200 individual medley, the 100-meter backstroke and the 100-meter breast stroke. His performance in the breast stroke topped a mark which had held since 1973.

Martin's performances were just as spectacular. In the 15-18 girls' 200-meter individual medley, Martin bettered her own previous record twice, first in the preliminaries and then again in the finals. Her other record setting performances came in the 200-meter freestyle relay and the 200-meter medley relay. The medley record was also a new SWISA record.

ASIDE from the record holders, Coach Sonnenberg mentioned several swimmers who did much better than they do normally. She did not know whether it was the added pressure of a championship meet or the fact that the swimmers had improved that much during the year.

"There were a lot of kids who really did well today. Brooke Bjorkman swam exceptionally well. Jenny Baker's times improved consistently. And, Collins Harlan was a big surprise," said Sonnenberg.

"There was a lot of pressure on them, to do well. Not only was it for the fifth straight championship, but it was a home meet and we went in with a loss for the first time. Some of them feel the pressure, but others were overly nervous."

THE LOSS Sonnenberg referred to came early in the season as they dropped a meet to Summer Haven. However, the point spread of that victory was much greater than the difference on Saturday.

"It's hard to say why the totals were so much different," said Sonnenberg after her team's loss. "I know our kids swam much better, because of the better times. But there were more teams to pull away points today. So I guess it was a combination of both."

One problem Sonnenberg said Paddlers faced was in the younger age groups, where most of their swimmers fall in the lower part of the age divisions.

"WE HAVE some very young 8-and-unders. Most of them are only six FREESTYLE. Paddlers' Patty Martin swims the free-style leg of the 15-18 girls' 200 yd. Individual Medley in Saturday's Southwestern Illinois Swimming Association Championships. Martin's time of 2:39.36 set a new Paddlers' record.

The record was one of sixteen set by Paddlers in the event. However, Paddlers lost in their bid for a fifth consecutive SWISA championship as they were defeated by Summer Haven 433-419.

At Tri-City Speedway

Standridge wins All-Star Circuit

By JOE SENTER
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY Rod Standridge of Springfield beat out the U.S.A.C. sprint car point leader Rick Hood for the $2000 first place feature win at Tri-City Speedway Saturday night.

Jack Hewitt, the promoter of the All Star Circuit of Champions, took the lead on lap 6 of the 30-lap feature event from Fred Linder, Bugron, Ohio, only to have mechanical problems on lap 16. Hewitt, with a big lead, looked to be a winner of his own money but had to pull out. This led the hard charging Rick Hood, Memphis, Tenn., in for the lead in his Fortune-Rose Bros. Chevy-powered sprinter. Hood led until lap 28 when Standridge, driving the McKay Racing Engines' Special, went on in for the checker flag.

Brother Randy Standridge won the semi-feature with the trophy dash going to Kenny Jacobs, Holmesville, Ohio.

Heat races were won by Tim Gee, Alberto, Canada, and Dean Shirley, Middletown, Ill., driving the Gus John car out of St. Louis.

Kenny Schrader, Fenton, Mo., could only place second in his heat race. There was a total of 28 sprint cars on hand for the first All Star Circuit of Champions sprint cars on the half-mile smooth dirt track.

Tri-City Speedway was prepared and is owned by Elvis Dootin.

Jack Hewitt was the fastest qualifier at 26.46 second and said he would like to return to the speedway to promote another event.

years old," said Sonnenberg. "It's hard for them to compete with kids who are a lot bigger than they are. We had one of my swimmers get out and say, 'Are you sure that kids only eight years old.' Sonnenberg said and laughed. "It's hard when they're so young, but they'll be really good in a couple years."

Other problems that plagued Paddlers were swimmers who just missed qualifying for the finals and swimmers who finished lower in the finals than they had in the qualifying heats.

"WE HAD someone to qualify in almost every event. We had two in some. But we had a couple of seventh years who didn't get in the finals and we had a few kids who qualified fourth and ended up fifth. So, we lost points on those and that hurt," Sonnenberg said.

Although disappointed with the loss, Sonnenberg saw Saturday's meet as a learning experience for her swimmers. Since all but one of Paddlers swimmers will be returning to competition next year, Sonnenberg is looking forward instead of back.

Laura Jenness, who will be too old for competition next year, finished off her Paddlers' career in style Saturday as she took two first places in the relays, as well as a second, fifth and sixth, in her individual events.

"We'll really miss Laura next year, she's such a good kid," said Sonnenberg. "But since we're only losing one swimmer, we should be pretty tough."

Monday SPORTS*In Inter-City Play
McDonalds hands Brooklyn first lossBy CHARLIE SKAGER
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — McDonald's coach Ray Harris and his Inter-City League baseball team took plenty of ribbing Saturday afternoon from the Brooklyn Robins.

Too much ribbing, in fact. The chatter coming from the Brooklyn players proved to be the inspiration McDonald's needed to upset the previously undefeated Robins, 3-1, in the second game of a double-header. The meeting between the top two clubs in the league had been a long time in the making. The double-header had been rescheduled from a May 27 rainout.

"They kept shouting that we were putting them off," said Harris. "They were yelling that the whole first game. Well, we showed them that there was another team that could beat them."

After taking an 8-1 loss in the opening game, McDonald's jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the first inning of the second game. Danny Schaus made it to first on an error, then the hit barrage started with back-to-back singles by Jeff Parker, Ron Pinkston, Jim Draper, Steve Ficker and Tom Stegmeyer.

The three-run lead was all that McDonald's needed. Al Yount, who usually plays first base for McDonald's, proved himself on the mound by holding Brooklyn to just four hits. Prior to Saturday's game, Yount was used as a pitcher against Brooklyn because McDonald's had rescheduled double-headers the past few Saturdays, meaning there weren't enough regular pitchers with adequate rest for all the games.

"We tried to reschedule with Brooklyn earlier," said Harris. "But this was the first Saturday that we could both get together."

McDonald's upset their record to 20-4 with two wins Sunday in a double-header against the Metro Wildcats. Steve Doty recorded a 9-4 win in the first game, while Jeff Parker earned a 9-2 victory in the second game.

"These wins really helped out," said Harris. "We needed to keep our record going up. Now if O'Fallon can do something against Brooklyn, I'd be very happy."

The O'Fallon Merchants fulfilled Harris' wishes. O'Fallon split a double-header Sunday against Brooklyn, closing the race in the Red Division. Brooklyn stands in first with two losses, while McDonald's is close behind with four losses.

McDonald's won't have to wait very long to get a chance to upset Brooklyn again. The two teams are scheduled for a double-header next week in Brooklyn.

"We're going to go down there and beat them again," predicted Harris. "At least we're going to win one game. I'd be satisfied with a split."

In other Inter-City League action, the Granite City Chiefs split a double-header with the East Alton Royals. The Chiefs came from behind to take a 6-5 win in the opening game, while the Royals coasted to an 8-0 victory in the second game.

MILY BOD hit a sacrifice fly in the eighth inning of the first game to drive his brother, Matt Roe, for what proved to be the winning run. Sam Stacie recorded the win, relieving for starter Dominic Griffin.

Granite City had been down 5-2 before tying the game in the sixth. Rob Ficker drove in two runs with a triple, then scored minutes later on a fielding error by the Royals' shortstop.

In the second game, East Alton pitcher Bob Streeter held Granite City to four hits while striking out 14. The Royals jumped out to a 5-0 lead in the first inning, with the assistance of two Granite City errors. Darryl Elmore was tagged with the loss for the Chiefs, who now stand at 3-16 in league play.

IN SUNDAY'S games at Wilson Park, McDonald's Jeff Parker had a workout, pitching 10 innings against Metro. Parker pitched three innings of relief in the first game, while going the distance in the second game.

Parker, like Yount, is not a regular pitcher for McDonald's. Parker gave up just two runs in his 10-inning performance, allowing 11 hits. Although he struck out just three batters, he walked only one.

"I was just keeping the ball down," said Parker. "I'd let them hit the ball and have our fielders do the rest."

"I tried to keep them offside. But I can't overpower anyone."

JIM DRAPER and Kevin Patterson paced McDonald's in the first game. Draper recorded a triple, two singles and a sacrifice fly, while Patterson went 3-for-4 and batted in two runs. Ron Pinkston also drove in two runs.

In the second contest, Kevin Sykes got things started for McDonald's by stealing home in the first inning to help his team take a 1-0 lead. Catcher Jim Lansing dropped the pitch, making things a little easier for Sykes.

"That's the second time this year," said Sykes, obviously happy about the steal. "I flash the sign to the batter and he acknowledges it. It takes confidence (to steal home). But you also have to be a little crazy to be a base stealer."

ALTHOUGH the Wildcats tied the game in the second, McDonald's went back on top with one run in the fourth. They then put the game out of reach by scoring four in the fifth and three more in the sixth.

"I was worried before then," said Harris. "We just couldn't get anything going. But when one guy gets a hit, the others seem to follow."

Carl Luehmman drove in two runs in the fourth by blasting a triple over right fielder Roger Matecki. Designated hitter Mike Zukas drove in a run with a double to left and Lance Parker, who had struck out five consecutive times on Sunday, ended his slump by hitting a double to left that also drove in one run in the fourth.

THE RUNS in the sixth inning were driven in by a double by Patterson, a sacrifice fly by Pinkston and a single by Zukas.

Meanwhile, Harris is looking forward to next week's games.

"It'll be tough to beat them down there," he said. "But we're going to go out and get them."

The Sotolars were almost a totally new club.

Saturday afternoon, they defeated a really strong Cape Girardeau, Mo., team, 4-2, and stayed alive in the double-elimination tourney.

And, it was all over for the Spankys. The 3B, Scarborough's sizzling and long drive to centerfield was chased down by the same Stelmmer.

Tomorrow night, the Spanky's will take on Edwardsville's Vanzos in a 7:30 p.m. game at that town's Hoppe Park.

7:30 p.m. The meeting, which will be led by Haig Nighobossian, is not exclusively for coaches and officials. Interested persons wishing to attend are welcome, Patton said. The meeting is free.

Griddler equipment pick up

Boys attending Granite City High School this fall who are interested in playing football should plan to pick up their equipment on Wednesday, Aug. 8, during one of three sessions.

According to new GCHS football coach Ron Yates, juniors and seniors should pick up their equipment at 5 p.m., and incoming freshmen should pick up their equipment at 5 p.m.

Actual practices won't begin until the following Monday at 8 a.m., Yates said.

Physicals slated

Free physical examinations will be conducted for all Madison High School athletes at 4:30 p.m. on Aug. 9, in the Madison High School gymnasium. Football players must have a physical if they wish to participate in the football program. Football practice will begin at 9 a.m. on Monday, Aug. 13, at the school.

SAFE SLIDE. McDonald's Kevin Sykes slides safely into home as Metro catcher Jim Engle awaits the throw during first inning action of the opening game of an Inter-City League double-header Sunday. Sykes scored on a sacrifice fly by Ron Pinkston. McDonald's won both games of the double-header against the Wildcats, 8-4 and 9-2. Sykes also showed his baserunning ability in the second game by stealing home. He scored six runs during the day.

ST. LOUIS — They were about as evenly matched as two baseball teams can be and the results in the finals of the Missouri state tournament over the past two weekends at Maryville College out in west St. Louis County dramatically bore out that fact.

Sunday afternoon Joe Sotolar and his Pointers came from behind to edge the 7/Up Spankys, 7-6, to capture the NBC championship for 1984. The night before on the same diamond, Sotolars had jumped out to an early 3-0 lead and had hung on to edge Manager Bill Stote and his Spankys, 3-2.

It had been a rough weekend for Spanky's.

In the early action, in the early action of the NBC tourney, the Spanky's nine had appeared almost unbeatable as they trampled Columbia, Mo., 25-1, and then had followed that with a 20-8 triumph over the Sotolars.

But, with their pitching staff buttressed with two outstanding left-handed pitchers and a hard-throwing righthander, Jim Harris, sports season will have their opportunity to get physicals.

Cost of the physicals is $5.

Although physical examinations are valid for one year, Patton suggested that athletes competing in spring sports wait until winter or spring before getting examined.

Another such exam session will be scheduled later in the school year, Patton said.

Patton requested that athletes receiving physicals arrive at the gymnasium as near to the starting times to expedite the process.

Soccer rules meeting set for Aug. 22

Soccer officials and coaches seeking to keep up the most recent rule changes made by the Illinois State Football Association may wish to attend a meeting at Granite City High School on Wednesday, Aug. 22.

According to GCHS Athletic Director Greg Patton, GCHS will host a rules and interpretation meeting in the high school gymnasium annex at 4:30-5:00 p.m.

SportsBriefsGCHS athletic physicals Aug. 7 & 9

Student athletes attending Granite City High School this fall needing physical examinations to compete may get those examinations on either Aug. 7 or 9, according to athletic director Greg Patton.

Beginning on Tuesday, Aug. 7, at 5:30 p.m., boys wishing to compete in either the fall or winter sports seasons may get their physicals for the coming seasons at GCHS-Memorial Gymnasium.

Two days later, on Thursday, Aug. 9, at 6:30 p.m., girls wishing to compete in either the fall or winter

Boys 15 years old who are soccer enthusiasts may wish to contact two Granite City men to register for a Select Team tryout which will be held in the coming weeks.

Suggestions for avoiding abductions of children

By PAT HAY LUTZ
for the Press-Record

Parents and guardians who leave their children in the car while they run into the store "for just a minute" or allow young children to browse in the toy department while they shop elsewhere in the store should pay attention to these facts—20,000 to 50,000 children are kidnapped by strangers every year.

Many of these children are abducted while they sit in their car waiting for parents, while they are looking at toys in the toy department, or while they are left alone in a shopping cart when their parent or guardian goes back to get something forgotten in another aisle.

SOMETIMES these children are found; most often they are not. Close to 2,000 missing children are registered with Child Find, Inc., a non-profit organization that assists parents in the search for missing children. Organization officials follow up leads across the country, distribute photographs and descriptions of the children, counsel parents and work with police departments and agencies in an effort to locate children at a cost of $750 per child.

Common sense precautions offered by the Granite City Police Department and Child Find provide parents with steps to take to reduce the risks of child abduction.

EDUCATING A child is a key ingredient in prevention. As early as age 2, children should be taught their full name, parents' names, their phone number (including area code), and their address.

One exercise encouraged by Child Find is a project where children are given a map of the United States and taught to color and identify the states in which they live. This project, which can be done at home and at school, is suggested because many streets and cities have the same or similar names in various states. (Two local examples: Madison Avenue runs through both Granite City and Madison, and both Venice, Ill., and St. Louis have a street named Broadway.)

By using a real telephone, parents can teach children how a telephone works. Parents can explain that dialing "0" and asking the operator for the Child Find 800 number will get them home, no matter where they are, if they know their name, address and phone number.

THE CONSISTENT use of a secret code word, known only by the parents and child, is another preventative measure. Parents should instruct children that they must never go anywhere with anyone who cannot volunteer the code word. If someone tells the child that he or she is supposed to take them somewhere, the child should ask, "What is the code word?" If the stranger cannot give the code word, the child should not go with that person, even if it is a best friend of the parents. An important aspect of the code word method is that the stranger is not necessarily someone who knows him or her personally is important. The child should learn that if the stranger makes several guesses, then he or she does not have the parents' permission to pick up the child.

Parents should avoid buying clothing with the child's name on it; strangers can secure the confidence of a child by saying his or her name. Reminding a child that someone who knows his or her name is not necessarily someone who knows him or her personally is important.

Children also must be taught that a stranger is not necessarily someone they have never seen before. Just because a child sees people on the street every day or in a hallway at school, the child must understand that they are strangers, and that they should never go anywhere with them. They may recognize someone from "daddy's" or "mommy's" acquaintances as casual and these grown-ups must be classified as strangers.

ALTHOUGH IT is permissible to ask a grown-up for help, children must understand that grown-ups should never have to ask children for help. In many cases, potential abductors use the ploy of asking a child for directions or asking for help in searching for a lost pet, in order to get physically close to the child. Parents should explain that grown-ups can get help from other grown-ups; they do not need to solicit the help of a child.

If a child thinks he or she is being followed, then the child should find the nearest store, service station or office and ask a staff member to call the police.

Probably the most important rules in the prevention of child abduction belong to the parents. Never, under any circumstances, should parents leave their child unattended. In less than a minute, a child can be abducted from a shopping cart, car, toy department or even a yard. If a parent notices a person loitering around children or driving slowly around the block, they should take action and immediately notify the police.

IF A PARENT realizes that a child is missing, prompt notification of the police is essential. Unlike the reporting of adult missing persons, the reporting of a missing child commands immediate attention. When a child is reported missing, radio transmissions about the child and searching begins upon the receipt of the complaint. Parents who are reporting their child missing should be able to give the police a complete and accurate description of their child, including age, clothing, height, weight, hair and eye color, birthmarks and scars, and should be able to produce a recent photograph of the child. Child Find and police authorities encourage taking pictures of children every six months, making sure that distinguishing marks are visible in the pictures.

Although the Granite City Police

Department reports that the tragedy of child abduction has been nonexistent here, the kidnapping of children across the country reaches into the thousands, mainly because parents are hesitant to discuss the possibility of molestation or abduction with their children. It's hard for a parent to look at the sweet, trusting faces of their children and imagine that anyone would want to harm them, but the harsh reality is that by failing to warn their children against such attacks, they are rearing potential victims.

MANY CHILDREN have suffered brutal assaults and have even died because they were not equipped with the skills to defend themselves. Parents should educate their children, and remember that there are people just waiting for them to turn their backs. Even "for just a minute."

Group nursing home insurance available

"Group Nursing Home Insurance Now Available in Illinois" was the subject of Ron Johnson as he spoke to the Five Star Club of Granite City Trust and Savings Bank, Johnson, of Minneapolis, Minn., is the designer of this special type of insurance. According to statistics one out of every four persons who reach age 65 will spend an average of a year and one half in a skilled nursing care facility. The average cost is an astounding $34,000 a year.

There are many myths as to payment of these costs. The sad truth is that very few of these costs are paid for by any type of insurance benefits, presently in existence. Medicare has become very insistent that a person be released from the hospital after, the shortest stay possible, long before they are completely recovered. Skilled nursing care then becomes a major factor during the recuperation period.

You can no longer consider your assets by transferring them to someone else. The value of your assets for the previous five years must be accounted for to establish your need. In fact recent legislation permits state medicare departments to transfer some financial responsibilities to children.

According to Johnson the long term, insurance will cover about 90 percent of the cost of most nursing home stays. His advice is to prepare for your future and protect your assets.

Vince Aiello, administrator of Edwardsville Care Center, expressed the fact that more than one half of the people in the nursing homes who are receiving Medicaid were solvent and financially independent before they entered the facility. The costs soon wiped out their life time savings. The concept of skilled care insurance, certainly seems to offer persons the opportunity to provide for themselves.

The speakers were accompanied by Richard Singer, senior vice-president of Granite City Trust, during the very informative question and answer period. Additional information and related programs are available by calling Emylee Alford at 876-1212.

Mrs. Alford, club coordinator, announced there are still tickets available for the Bob Hope Show, Sept. 18. The "Let Us Entertain You" program to be held at the Granite City Township Hall, Sept. 8, is open for guests at no cost, but reservations are required. There were 80 members present for the talk and refreshments.

Angela Grupus and Frankie Laine

Frankie Laine interview to be aired Wednesday

The legendary Frankie Laine visited this area last week and was a guest on South-Western Cable Channel 1-22 "Getting to Know You" show featuring Angela Grupus as host.

At the Hukelau Restaurant in Fairview Heights, the well-known musician spoke of his long career which began with "That's My Desire" in 1946, and continued with such hits as "Mule Train," "Jezebel," and "I Believe."

His "belting" style contrasted the ballad singers of the 1940's and gave birth to a new style combined with Laine's own unique voice quality. A total of 110 million record sales were registered as Laine's hits, Miss Grupus explained.

Miss Grupus interviewed the Chicago native revealing facts of his past and insight to his future concerts and albums. Many will recall the western television show theme song, "Rawhide" that kept Laine's voice on the screen for over seven years. His career spans more than four decades and envelopes many different styles and forms of music, Miss Grupus added.

His appearance on the Getting to Know You show will be aired Wednesday, Aug. 8 and Aug. 15, at 6:30 p.m. and again on Fridays, Aug. 10 and Aug. 17 at 6 p.m.

Camermen for the show are Harold Zeigler, Jeff Taylor, and the director is Herb Sadler.

Museum director finds Greece a 'museum without walls'

By KIM REDEKER

Greece has fewer museums than the United States. So found David Huntley, director of the Office of University Museums at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Huntley recently participated in the "International Partnership Among Museums."

Although Greece has fewer institutionally organized museums, the SIUE art administration and teacher noted that the situation is changing. Coming from an institution where art is omnipresent in its "museum without walls," Huntley was able to appreciate the situation in Greece. The entire nation is, in effect, an enormous museum without walls, he said.

HOSTED BY the Greek Ministry of Culture and Science, the "partnership" involved an 18-day trip organized through the cooperation of the American Association of Museums and the International Council of Museums (ICOM). The tour was arranged by the Greek National Committee of ICOM.

A recent trend shows that regional museums are becoming very popular, reports Huntley. Artifacts are now beginning to be returned to their original sites or points of discovery.

Huntley was one of 24 American museum professionals who visited the sites and engaged in discussions with Greek museum curators, archaeologists and scholars. They visited some of the most important and innovative museums and exhibit installations, from Macedonia in the north to the island of Crete in the south.

"AN IMPORTANT concept to be considered is the similar responsibility that Greece and the United States share: protection for posterity. Greece has millions of Neolithic artifacts to take care of and our American treasures are much younger and not nearly as awesome," Huntley pointed out.

The highlight of his trip was a visit to the excavation of the royal Macedonia tombs at Vergina. The major tomb of the group, yet open to the public, is believed by Professor Manolis Andronicus, the discoverer, to have belonged to Philip II of Macedonia, father of Alexander the Great.

Works from this discovery and from the archeological museum in Thessaloniki constituted the recent "In Search of Alexander" exhibit, which opened at the National Gallery in Washington and toured the United States. These finds are undisturbed tombs dating from the fourth century B.C.

ACCORDING TO Andronicus, they are some of the most important finds of modern archeology; they provide a valuable insight into the life of Macedonia royalty at the time of Alexander.

The American group also took excursions to excavations at Delphi, Olympia, Dion and to the islands of Crete, Andros and Santorini. While visiting the Parthenon on the Acropolis, they were apprised of the manifold problems involved in restoration.

"At the Parthenon, they were all intrigued by tourist groups, demanding that they, too, be allowed to see the temple, which has been closed for a number of years to plan restoration and protection. There is a special concern about the pollution caused by urban problems and traffic.

ON A MORE pastoral note, the group traveled to isolated mountain villages on the east coast, where they shared in village life and heard lectures by local folklore scholars.

Complementing the visits to ancient museums and archeological sites were visits to contemporary museums, public and private. There were discussions of the relatively new idea of "museum education," where students gain "on-hands" experience through field trips to study artifacts.

The concept of museum education is rapidly expanding and of particular interest to Huntley. SIUE now offers classes in this field through the department of art and design. During the trip, he took over a thousand photographs of Greek museums and art objects, which he plans to use in his classes.

The purpose of the program was to stimulate international partnership among museum professionals, thus encouraging stronger organization and administration of museums of all kinds, according to the sponsors of the trip. This will provide better ways to conserve and restore the art and artifacts which constitute our common cultural heritage, Huntley added.

SIUE ART ORACLE GOES TO DELPHI. The monument at Delphi from the Treasury of the Athenians and home of the ancient oracle, dating back to 500 B.C., was visited recently by David Huntley, director of university museums at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. He participated in the "International Partnership Among Museums," a cooperative venture of the International Council of Museums and the American Association of Museums. The 18-day tour was arranged by the Greek National Committee of ICOM and was hosted by the Greek Ministry of Culture and Science. The program provided an information interchange between Greek museum professionals and members of the American museum community.

SIUC to install 3 earthquake detection machines

Sitting in his office, one that is atop the famed New Madrid fault zone, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale (SIUC) earthquake expert Lawrence Malinconico thought it odd he had equipment to detect distant earthquakes but not local tremors.

"It seemed silly that a major institution shouldn't be more involved, especially from a community aspect in helping with earthquake information," he said.

HE ASKED SIUC President Albert Somit for help and now the first installment of it is on its way.

Malinconico, who heads SIUC's Geophysical Observatory and runs its earthquake detection-measurement machine, asked for three remote seismometer systems in order to expand the observatory's abilities. The first is to be installed in September. Acquisition of the other two depend on how soon more money can be scraped up.

The remote systems are to be set up inside a rough triangle whose points would be St. Louis, Carbondale and Cape Girardeau, Mo. Malinconico says southwestern Illinois is now troublesome area in the earthquake information collection network. "We believe there are earthquakes occurring now in the southwest, but there are no stations there to detect them," he said.

MALINCONICO TOOK his request to Somit and the university became funding had grown scarce from the usual federal agencies interested in earthquake research.

"President Somit felt we should be in the business of helping out the area," with answers to "questions about local earthquakes," Malinconico said. He came up with about $5,000 from his research equipment budget and the university chipped in another $5,000 to $6,000. Altogether, the three remote systems will cost $30,000.

Three seismographic readings are needed to locate the epicenter of an earthquake. All the new equipment Malinconico wants would greatly extend the observatory's information gathering arm, but even one remote system will add muscle.

The remote systems-Geophones-are like big stethoscopes that pick up underground heartbeats. They transmit corresponding electric signals to home-base antennae. SIUC's will probably be set up on top of the campus' three 17-story dormitories.

SIGNALS are translated to a way-line reading on a cylinder drum—just like the one for SIUC's seismometer.

Any additional information gathered is valuable, Malinconico said. SIUC is part of a tremor detection network and sends its information to St. Louis University, as do Memphis State University and the University of Kentucky. St. Louis University is the main earthquake research institution in the area, and SIUC are also members of the National Earthquake Information Center in Colorado, which collects the quake data and determines such factors as the epicenter, magnitude and intensity.

Stockbrokerage firm looks for employees at GCC

When A. G. Edwards and Sons Inc., St. Louis' largest stockbrokerage firm, looks for employees this fall, it will look to Granite City Center (GCC) of Belleville Area College (BAC). Nancy Gough, a recruiting and placement specialist at the company, visits the school, talks to instructors and interviews students.

MR. GOUGH heard about GCC from a friend who lives in Granite City. Judy Sparks, a secretarial science instructor at the center, will work with Mrs. Gough to place students.

The firm hires 24 to 30 BAC graduates a year, many from the secretarial science program to fill clerical and trainee positions. Data processing graduates also are hired.

"We've always been very pleased with our BAC students and I'm sure the GCC students will meet the same standards," Mrs. Gough said. "The employees we hire from BAC are super," she said. "They are very qualified people."

DON UNGEROTT, BAC's off-campus placement representative, attended an open house at A.G. Edwards earlier this spring. "They invited us to come out there and meet their people," he said. "They told us what they are looking for and what they need."

"We've had really good contact with them. They always call us when they have an opening."

Videotape engineering courses offered

The university of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign (UIUC) will offer a series of videotape courses in the Professional Engineering Series in Belleville, Illinois, beginning August 14, 1984.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Whenever a person wishes to start a business in Illinois, he must decide which types of business organization he should use. The principal types of business organizations are the sole proprietorship, the partnership, and the corporation. When a person chooses the sole proprietorship, this basically means that the person himself is the business. His business income will be taxed as individual income, and the person will be fully responsible for his actions. A partnership, on the other hand, is an agreement between two or more persons to carry out a business for profit, and each partner has an equal voice in the management of the business. The purpose of this article is to discuss the corporation in Illinois and the advantages inherent in this type of business entity.

To incorporate in this state, it is necessary to file Articles of Incorporation with the Secretary of State. This document sets forth such things as the name of the corporation, the address of its registered office, the name of its registered agent, the length of time the corporation will exist, the purpose for which the corporation is organized, and the number of shares which the business will have authority to issue. After the Articles of Incorporation are filed, the Secretary of State issues a Certificate of Incorporation authorizing the corporation to begin business.

One of the main reasons why people incorporate is because the investors in a corporation have limited liability. Generally speaking, the shareholders of a corporation are immune from personal liability for the debts of the corporation. This means that the creditors may not go beyond the corporation's own assets in enforcing payment of valid debts of the corporation. It also should be noted that the shareholders are not personally liable for wrongs committed by employees of the corporation.

To illustrate the advantages of incorporating, let's take the example of shareholders who incorporate for the purpose of forming a health club. Subsequently, they go to the bank and take out loans in the name of the corporation. Later, because of business reverses, they fall behind in paying corporate taxes. Finally, as the culmination of a bad venture, a patron is injured on the premises and gets a $100,000 judgment against the corporation. In this situation, the corporation can file bankruptcy, if necessary, and the shareholders' personal assets cannot be reached.

Former GC teacher leaves $25,000 to SEMC

By STEPHEN WHITWORTH

A former Granite City High School teacher who died this April bequeathed $25,000 to St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Grace J. Jordan, who taught sewing and home economics at Granite City High School from 1925 to 1954, died April 16, at the age of 94. She had been residing in Morrisville, Ill., since her retirement in 1954.

Miss Jordan was born in St. Morrisville area on Sept. 13, 1889. She attended Illinois State University. She taught school for three years in Galesburg and for two years in Farmersville before coming to Granite City.

After her retirement, she shared the family home in Morrisville with her nephew, Keith Kastein, who died in January 1980.

Miss Jordan left $25,000 to SEMC as a memorial to Mr. Kastein and herself. Although she was never a patient at SEMC, had not lived in Granite City since 1954. "She had something here that stayed in her mind," said Mel Akers, the executor of her estate.

Miss Jordan also left bequests to the United Methodist Church of Morrisville, many cemeteries in the area, to the Morrisville Library, to the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children in St. Louis and to the village of Morrisville.

Miss Jordan is survived by a sister, Irene Wetenstein of Morrisville, as well as by five nieces and one nephew.

School Board delays demolition of building

The Madison School Board was informed Thursday night that its decision to select bids for demolition of the old Dunbar School Annex had been "halted" by Board President Paul Rargiel. The board had instructed Superintendent John Palcher to solicit bids for the project during its July 16 meeting.

Board member Don Garrett asked Rargiel why no bid solicitations appeared in the newspapers and Rargiel responded that he had "halted" the project and that he would discuss the matter at a closed session immediately following the meeting Thursday.

The Illinois Open Meetings Act forbids discussions in closed meetings of public bodies except in cases of land acquisition, litigation, and disciplinary matters. A source said discussion of the Dunbar School building was conducted during the closed meeting, "limited" only to discuss employee salaries.

The board last month decided to demolish the old annex, which sits behind the school at Third and Jackson streets, after a committee of members Garrett, Ed Newsome and Billie Bosworth studied the condition of the building. At that time,

New game in town—Granite City

The official game of "Granite City" similar to the popular Monopoly game, will be prepared soon, with the names of business places in town on the game board spaces, instead of the normal "Boardwalk," "Park Place" and others. The new game will be released for sale to the public in the fall.

As a fund raising project, the organizing Gateway RPA is actively soliciting the assistance of local merchants to advertise on the game spaces and have a lasting reminder in each household. Granite City businessmen are being invited to participate in the promotion of the game. Limited spaces are available at various prices, according to each's location on the board.

The hard cardboard folding game board cards and play money will be included in the boxed game, along with instructions for playing.

Members of the planning committee will call on each business place this month to answer questions about the game and take orders for the board space, according to Barbara Hodges, chairman.

The games tentatively are to be printed and returned here for sale by late October at the earliest, or early in November at the latest, the chairman explained.

Officially the game will be called "Granite City Wheel-Dealer" and will be a family-type game for all ages, sold at a nominal fee. For more information, those interested are advised to contact Mrs. Hodges at 451-9992 after 5 p.m.

USDA raises income limits for food aid

New income limits for child nutrition programs in schools became effective July 1, according to Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Mary C. Jarrett.

The income limit for free school meals for a family of four was raised from $12,870 to $13,200 annually. The limit for reduced-price meals increased from $18,315 to $18,870. Jarrett said a family of four may now receive up to $18,870 and still take part in the supplementary food program for women, infants and children (WIC).

Congress requires USDA to update the eligibility guideline each July 1 to reflect changes in the consumer price index. These guidelines affect the national school lunch, school breakfast, special milk and child care food programs, all administered by USDA's Food and Nutrition Service at the federal level.

Maximum annual gross income limits for participation are as follows:

One person—$6,474 for free meal eligibility and $9,213 for reduced-price eligibility.

A family of two—$8,736 for free meal eligibility and $12,432 for reduced-price eligibility.

A family of three—$10,988 for free meal eligibility and $15,651 for reduced-price eligibility.

A family of four—$13,200 for free meal eligibility and $18,870 for reduced-price eligibility.

A family of five—$15,522 for free meal eligibility and $22,089 for reduced-price eligibility.

A family of six—$17,784 for free meal eligibility and $25,308 for reduced-price eligibility.

A family of seven—$20,046 for free meal eligibility and $28,527 for reduced-price eligibility.

A family of eight—$22,308 for free meal eligibility and $31,746 for reduced-price eligibility.
